

SegmentDuration*Details

Titles
Coming Up

38"
52"

Title Sequence (GFX 100%)
Coming Up / Intro

Hello and welcome to Arsenal 360!

Seven days is a long time in the world of football, and in Arsenal 360, you'll see all the news, highlights, interviews, analysis and inside information, fresh from Arsenal HQ.

On this week's show it's derby day as we head to Wembley to take on Tottenham...before flying to France for a face-off with Rennes in the Europa League.

Adrian Clarke will be here to put the derby under the microscope in 'The Breakdown'.

And for the Final Word, we're handing the show over to La Cabra... Nacho Monreal.

All that and more on the only show that gives you the week at Arsenal from every angle.

Arsenal 360.

But first...

Sting (Highlights)
Highlights

5"
3'00"

Highlights – Tottenham v Arsenal

One of English football's most intense rivalries, the battle for north London supremacy between us and Tottenham has transcended pure bragging rights in recent years. After we enjoyed decades of dominance, Tottenham have proven to be a noisy neighbor in recent seasons, especially on home turf where we have only won once in the league in the past 10 years.

Title hopes recently dented, the hosts were now looking over their shoulders in the race for the top four, while a win for us would narrow the gap between the sides to just a single point.

Unai Emery once again decided to raise some eyebrows with his team selection as Mesut Ozil, Lucas Torreira and Pierre Emerick-Aubamayang were all named on the bench. The Spaniard also went for a

Segment

Duration

Details

back four, while Aaron Ramsey and Henrikh Mkhitaryan were selected to play behind lone striker, Alex Lacazette.

English Comms: “

Post Match1'00*Post Match

Alex Iwobi: “We were unlucky not to get the three points. I mean the boys – we dug in from the start to the last minute of the game. It was unfortunate for us not to get the result we wanted, but at the end of the day, a draw is a draw. It’s always going to be hard against our rivals, so I think we did well. We can only play our part and keep on fighting until the end. We’re focusing ourselves and not them, so we will see where we end up at the end of the season.”

GFX 100% (Table)1'00*Throw to Breakdown

That agonising draw against the old enemy allowed Manchester United to sneak past us by virtue of a thrilling win over Southampton, while Chelsea remain just a point further back after winning a tense west London tussle with Fulham. At the summit Manchester City displaced Liverpool, the latter being held to a goalless draw by Everton.

What could’ve been...despite being so close to a well-earned win, we left Wembley with only a point...to find out more about our latest derby drama, it’s time to hear from the guru...Adrian Clarke.

Sting (Breakdown)5”*The Breakdown*3'00”*The Breakdown

Adrian Clarke: “The 185th north London Derby was passionately contested and incident packed, but unfortunately, no winner could be found. Here’s my analysis of Arsenal’s performance in a 1-1 draw that could easily have been a famous Gunners victory.

“The hallmark of this spirited Arsenal performance was hard work and determination. Unai Emery’s men were organized and ready to leave everything out there on the Wembley pitch...

“These phases of play typify the resolve shown by the Gunners. Swarming all over danger man Harry Kane -who didn’t manage a shot from open play - they crowd him out, before attacking midfielder Ramsey drops all the way back in to lend a hand for the side. The bounce doesn't go Arsenal's way but they regroup quickly to ensure there's no pathway through for Son either. The whole team displayed resilience. Teammates wanted to go the extra mile to cover their colleagues, which was great to see. Here, Tottenham pick up the second ball, but Guendouzi sprints back to offer vital and timely support to his central defenders. Torreira came on and followed the same lead. Here, I like the way he steams in to pressurise Rose in a good area. There was such a pleasing appetite to hound white shirts as a collective, particularly inside the middle third where they counter pressed ferociously - but once the mission of retrieving possession had been completed, Arsenal went from hot to cold, quite superbly. Flicking the switch, they were able to slow down their minds to keep the ball calmly and with nice composure.

Segment

Duration

Details

"The standout stats in this north London derby were related to Arsenal's choice of distribution from the back. Tactically it's clear the instructions were to go long..."

"All of the starting back four sent over 20% of their passes long. from back to front, dwarfing their respective season averages in a bid to get the ball forward in a more direct manner. Arsenal averaged 23.95% of long passes at Wembley, which was by far their highest proportion of the entire campaign. The next closest was at Huddersfield when they registered 17.07%. Turning the Spurs' rearguard with early passes was part of the game plan.

"1-0 up with less than 20 minutes to play - and Spurs running out of ideas - Arsenal's lead felt increasingly comfortable, that's until the home side was handed a controversial lifeline..."

"When this free kick is delivered it is undeniable that Harry Kane was in an offside position, and although the language of the rule book does create some confusion on this matter, the authorities later confirmed that as he was trying to play the ball, the striker should have been flagged offside. A mistake from the assistant referee swung this match completely. At the most critical stage of the contest, it's a huge call to go against Emery's men. There is no denying that Mustafi made an error in trying to barge Kane. It was a definite foul inside the danger zone - but the Spurs captain had already gained an illegal advantage by running from an offside position. Arsenal's protests were entirely founded, but from the spot kick, Kane never looked like wasting the opportunity.

"Laurent Koscielny was superb, but just pipping him to the title of main man is his centre back partner, Sokratis. The Greek star was absolutely outstanding..."

"We've learnt this season that Sokratis has deceptive pace and he put that to good use when tracking the run of Son in this clip. Quick and determined, he tidied up a problem with no fuss at all. In one-v-one situations the summer

Segment

Duration

Details

signing sticks with opposition forwards like glue. Using his powerful frame to dominate Eriksen here, Sokratis snuffed out the attack with ease, before playing out with calm assurance. Just like Koscielny, the 30-year-old's positioning inside the area was spot on. His reading of the game was exemplary on the day. And whatever questions Spurs asked of Sokratis, he always had the answer. He was a true defensive rock.

"In a word, this was a committed Arsenal performance. The aggressive mindset and staunch resilience were a welcome sight, but there was quality too. The Gunners definitely created the game's clearest openings. Lady Luck was not on their side. Kane's penalty shouldn't have been awarded, Aubameyang was very unfortunate not to get a retake and Torreira's late red card felt harsh in light of Danny Rose escaping with a yellow for a challenge that was arguably more dangerous. I know that a 1-1 draw feels deflating, but don't get too down about it. This was an Arsenal display to be proud of."

Sting (Newsflash)

5"

Throw to Break
Break

10"

Throw to Break

That's the half-time whistle here on A360, but join us after the break for Newsflash, Nacho Monreal and a trip to Rennes in the Europa League.

Welcome Back

10"

Welcome Back

Welcome back to the only place for everything Arsenal from every angle, Arsenal 360. Up next we're back on the continent for the Europa League.

Sting (Team Talk)
Team Talk

5"

2'00"

Rennes v Arsenal

After dispatching BATE Borisov in the previous round, Ligue 1 outfit, Rennes were our opponents in the last 16...and history was in the air as two sides that had never before faced off in a competitive fixture met up under lights in the heart of France.

There was also a sentimental streak to the tie as Rennes were also the team where the retiring Petr Cech made his name back in 2001. The veteran keeper was named to start as he has done throughout the tournament, while Mesut Ozil was chosen alongside in form Henrikh Mkhitaryan and Alex Iwobi as part of a creative midfield trio behind leading scorer Pierre Emerick Aubameyang.

Segment

Duration

Details

MATCH CommsGFX 100% (Table)*1'00*EUROPA RESULTS

We will have it all to do back in London in a week's time against Rennes after unarguably the shock of the round, closely followed by five-time winners, Sevilla, drawing at home to Slavia Prague. Elsewhere Chelsea and Napoli were the pick of the teams, alongside Santi Cazorla's Villarreal.

Newsflash2'00"*Newsflash

First up in Newsflash, several of our Women's stars were in the spotlight for England in the 'She Believes' Tournament in the United States, where they were joined by the hosts, and fellow football heavyweights Brazil and Japan. Beth Mead and Leah Williamson both featured as England won the tournament by drawing with the USA and winning both of their other fixtures in a positive showing for Phil Neville's Lionesses.

It was a busy night at the London Football Awards as Matteo Guendouzi, Joe Montumerruo, Pierre Emerick Aubamayeng and Arsenal in Community were all nominated for awards, but it was Vivienne Miedema who walked away with silverware. The Dutch 23-year-old rode a record-breaking season in the WSL to be voted as the capital's finest female footballer.

In the loan report we start our coverage close to home, where Emi Martinez was named man of the match in Reading's 2-1 win over Ipswich Town – and was then named in the Championship Team of the Week.

Calum Chambers bagged a goal in the west London derby as Fulham fell deeper into relegation trouble with a 2-1 loss at the hands of Chelsea.

Further down the ladder, Krystian Bielik once again saw major gametime for Charlton as they drew 1-1 with Doncaster.

Over on the continent, David Ospina came on for Alex Meret as he was sent off just 25 minutes into Napoli's 2-1 defeat to Juventus in Serie A.

While in Germany both Reiss Nelson for Hoffenheim and Takuma Asano both suffered Bundesliga defeats.

Our Under-18s hosted Norwich City at the weekend and really rattled the Canaries' cage with a dominant victory.

As has been the case in recent weeks, an early goal set the tone, and this time it came courtesy of Flo Balogun just three minutes into proceedings.

Balogun bagged another 15 minutes later...

...and that was followed by a Tyreece John-Jules penalty..

..but Balogun put his stamp on the first half by rounding out his hat trick in the 35th minute...making it 16 goals for Ken Gillard's side this season.

A Harry Clarke own goal eight minutes into the second half gave the visitors a flicker of hope, but it was extinguished in ruthless fashion as first Trae Coyle and then Sam Greenwood scored immediately after to extend our lead.

Norwich did manage to score a late penalty, but it meant little as we rounded out 6-2 winners on the day.

At home to Swansea City, our Under-23s had a difficult evening and their strange season continued when the game was called to a halt due to an injury to the referee late in the first half.

Despite dominating the opening period, the break in play disrupted our momentum and the Swans capitalised with two goals in added on.

In the second half Freddie Ljungberg's side went into attack mode and created a stream of good opportunities...

Segment

Duration

Details

...but it wasn't until the final ten minutes that we finally broke the stubborn Swans rearguard. First 17-year-old Flo Balogun reproduced his under-18 form to pull one back....before Nathan Toney scored a fine second to level proceedings with four minutes left to go.

Despite the late onslaught, the winning goal just wouldn't come - 2-2 the final score to leave us seventh in the standings.

That's all for now, if you want to find out more, log on to www.arsenal.com, the home of Arsenal online.

Sting (Wenger's Word)

5'

Wenger's Word

1'00"

Final Word – Nacho Monreal

This week on the final word, we welcome Nacho Monreal to A360. After years of being the club's Mr. Dependable, injuries have disrupted his campaign, but much like the rest of the squad he feels he has turned a corner in 2019.

NM: "This season has been a bit different for me because it has been the first season I've had a few injuries in a row, I missed a lot of games, I lost my form and I think in the last [few] months I have started to come back. I'm starting to feel better again. I think the team is happy and is lucky to have two left backs who try to help the team. I'm really happy with my last performances, but as I say, I just try to give my best every single day, every single training [session] and every single game. I try to help and I'm happy doing that."

Unai Emery was once again in the spotlight after his tactical decisions were vindicated at Wembley. Just nine months into his Arsenal tenure, there is still plenty of intrigue around our head coach...and Nacho is impressed by his Emery experience so far.

NM: "I think he's doing a really great job. It's difficult for him because he's the first manager after [Arsene] Wenger, so people are comparing them all the time. I think we need to give him time, sign new players,

Segment

Duration

Details

teach us his plans for the future; but at the moment, he's doing really well. He probably works more on possession and tactics than we did with Wenger. It's completely different. He has good things and things to improve as does everyone. I think everyone is happy. The club is happy with him and the players are happy with him so everyone is happy."

It seems in the media that no mention of Emery can go without comment on Mesut Ozil. The mercurial star has been in and out of the side, and while it has sparked conversation in the press, behind closed doors at Colney Mesut is doing everything to help the team.

NM: "Mesut missed a few games but he's again with the team, he's again fighting and if you see him training and when he plays, he looks like he is completely committed to the team. That's really good and he's really important for us. He's a top-quality player. He helped us a lot: giving us assist and scoring goals. The other teams, when they Mesut on the pitch, they say: 'Mesut is here, we need to be careful'. He's an important player."

With two clear paths to Champions League football still on offer, many fans and pundits have been speculating about where the club's priorities lie, but as usual, the message inside the camp has been crystal clear.

NM: "Our target is to finish in the top four, definitely. From the beginning of the season it was really clear, our target. Obviously we're going to fight. We want to win the Europa League. Last season we were really close but we didn't qualify to play in the final. This year our target is to finish in the top four and of course to try and win the Europa League."

That's the Final Word for this week, now let's take a look at what's been happening on social media.

Social Media Report 1'00"

Social Media Report

First up, there was plenty of chat online

SegmentDuration*Details

after the dramatic events at Wembley and it was a contrast of emotions between Aaron Ramsey and Pierre Emerick Aubameyang.

The latter taking to Instagram to apologise for his penalty miss.

That was swiftly followed again on Instagram by Sokratis coming to the defence of his friend and teammate.

Hector Bellerin kept the fans abreast of the latest steps in his injury recovery.

And finally, Mesut Ozil was feeling the global love from our Indian fanbase.

Next Week50"*Next Week

That's all we have time for on Arsenal 360 today.

Remember for more info, news and video, log onto www.arsenal.com, the home of Arsenal Online.

Next week we've got another action-packed show as old foes Manchester United and then Rennes make their way to Emirates Stadium.

The Breakdown, Newsflash and The Final Word will all also return on the only show that gives you the week at Arsenal from every angle...

Arsenal 360.

Titles
Total*33"
26'00"*(Including Stings)